

To whom it may concern,

Why wouldn't we want this?

The exciting new Los Angeles Stadium will create 6,700 new jobs for local workers ... generate some $21 million in new tax revenue for local government ... and pump an estimated $762 million into our local economy.

In addition to professional football, the complex will be home to restaurants, movies, entertainment, parking, offices and a state-of-the-art medical facility. And because of its unique, environment-friendly design, it will be the NFL's first "green" stadium.

Neighboring communities have already embraced the stadium. But instead of rolling out the welcome mat, some in Walnut are slamming the door, vowing to oppose the stadium in court -- wasting tax money to fight a project that has already been approved.

We're puzzled.

The stadium will be built in the City of Industry. No tax money will be used to build it. The developer, Majestic Realty, has a proven record of success and a long tradition as a good neighbor.

Majestic Realty developed the "Staples Center" -- turning a blighted area of Los Angeles into a thriving economic powerhouse. And the Majestic Realty Foundation has already donated over $2.4 million to community service organizations throughout the San Gabriel Valley -- including Mt. San Antonio College and youth sports groups here in Walnut.

Help us score an economic "touchdown" for Walnut by uniting in support of the Los Angeles Stadium -- a major economic boost for our community.
